1. Ryman Trail

Located south of Rico, there turnoff to the access road is not marked, but 0.2 miles from the highway one will see an area to park and a sign for Ryman Creek Tr #735. The first 1.3 miles is relatively level. Then one reaches the junction in the trail. It is recommended to go left (clockwise) so as to get the steep hike portion done at the beginning of the hike. This portion of the trail is more defined and takes one through aspen/conifer forest. The lower Ryman Creek trail can be less obvious and sometimes overgrown in spots. For the most part it follows the creek back to the junction.
